Walk raises $9500

The weather was ideal, the walkers (and runners) stepped out with vigor, and sponsors were generous this past Saturday as the Help A Village Effort (HAVE) held its annual Walk For Water.

This year's 25 kilometer walk attracted 95 participants who carried some $9500 in pledges, similar to the amount raised last year. The organizers were very pleased with the number of walkers and delighted that the weather was ideal for the day.

The funds raised from this year's walk will be used to drill water wells in the west African nation The Gambia.

The Jordeus family take a break under an appropriate roadside sign during Saturday's Walk For Water. The family was part of a contingent of 95 which helped raise funds for water wells in the Third World. Family members include, mother Pat, centre, David, left, Kevin, sitting, and friend Shannon Deterling. The family dog, Rufus, also took part in the walk.

Good year for Guild

While the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts has recently completed its most successful year in terms of finances and budgeting, Joan Hoad, outgoing president says their heads are not above water yet.

For the first time in the 22 year history of the Guild, it has a cash surplus of more than $7,000 as of the March 31 fiscal year end.

Although the financial picture is better than past years, Hoad says finances are still very tight. With three full-time employees on staff, $7,000 is not a great amount to carry the guild through the "lean months" of April, May and June.

The 1987 financial statements were presented at the Guild's annual meeting

Legion gets land

Efforts to form a Minden branch of the Royal Canadian Legion are on the brink of fruition after it was announced last Tuesday that its charter will be approved and a large chunk of property was donated for a building.

Anthony (Tony) Samarillo said he is very optimistic about the future of a legion here. Confirmation of charter approval and the land donation are two large steps toward making the Minden branch a reality, he said.

Delivering the good news about the charter was Mel Robinson, past zone commander, Mabel Brannigan, zone secretary, was also on hand for Tuesday's meeting at the curling club.

The 87,500 square foot piece of property was donated to the Legion by Bruce and Ellen Scribner. Samarillo said the lot, located on Bobcaygeon Drive, across from the cemetery, is "a beautiful piece to build on." He said he is delighted the Scribners provided this gift to the Legion. "It sure is a terrific donation."

While the future is bright for the Legion, there is still a considerable amount of money to be generated before members will have their own building for meetings and events.

Samarillo estimates that the Legion building will cost close to $250,000. Part of this will likely come from the provincial body, while the remainder will come from local fundraising events.

The next step in creating a Minden branch will be the actual presentation of the charter. Samarillo said no firm date has been set for this event, but he is hoping it will be in late September or early October. He expects there will be more than 300 people on hand for the official signing of the charter and hopes to hold the event at the community centre.

There are between 50 and 60 potential members for Minden Legion already, said Samarillo. He said most are members of other Legion branches who live in Minden. The minimum membership to qualify for a charter is 15.

Davis resigns Dysart seat

The creation of four new positions with the Haliburton County ambulance service has spurred Deputy Reeve William Davis to tender his resignation from council in favor of one of the newly-created positions.

In a letter to Warden Murray Fearrey and county council, Davis indicates that he is in line for one of the positions with the ambulance service. Since this service comes under the jurisdiction of the municipal council, of which he is a member, Davis would be in conflict of interest if he remained as Deputy Reeve and was an employee of the council.

Last week, Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins announced a $260,000 increase in provincial funding for Minden's and Haliburton's ambulance services, creating four new positions. Davis, who has acted as an ambulance volunteer in the past, is now prepared to accept a staff position with the service.

In tendering his resignation from council, Davis said, "I do not want to get in the position that would possibly put me in conflict, and would restrict me from performing the duties of Deputy Reeve in the manner they should be done."

Warden Fearrey said he is 'surprised and sorry' to see Davis leaving council. However, he said he understands the reasoning behind the decision. "There is no doubt he would be in conflict," Fearrey said. "He's better to divorce himself from county council."

Fearrey said that while the Dysart council has not formally discussed the matter, it was likely the vacant Deputy Reeve's position would be filled by appointing one of the present members of council to the post, and then appointing a member of the community to the vacant council seat. He said a by-election for either post was out of the question because of the cost and the fact the council is more than half way through its term of office.

In his letter to council Davis said he is sorry to be leaving. "I have always enjoyed the time I have spent on behalf of the citizens of Dysart et al and enjoyed working with all members of council. We did not always agree but even our differences were quite often in the best interest of the one common goal."

2000 bikes expected for Ride For Sight

For the third year in a row, motorcyclists from across Ontario will be converging on Minden for the annual Ride for Sight fund raising effort. Estimates indicate that some 2000 machines are expected to take part in this year's ride.

The event is held each year to raise money for the Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation of Canada. Retinitis Pigmentosa (RP) is a degenerative eye disease that eventually leads to blindness in the victim. The motorcyclists have been gathering donations over the past few months and will make the trek to Minden Saturday to hand over the funds they have raised to the charity.

Once here, the cyclists can view the large number of exhibits at the trade show, take part in a number of contests testing driving skills and enjoy the hospitality of the community. In the evening a dance and trophy presentation will take place in the arena. A number of local organizations will provide services for the visitors, including refreshment booths, Saturday supper, dance and bar Saturday evening and breakfast Sunday morning. The co-ordinator of Minden services is Parks Manager Brian Sisson.

The municipality will provide camping facilities for the visitors at the fairground.

Other attractions at the fairgrounds include helicopter rides, a large hot air balloon from Molson's Brewery, a giant bonfire and a casino.

All the proceeds raised by the cyclists will be donated to the RP Foundation. Last year the Ride for Sight raised $154,000. As well, those organizations providing services for the visitors have agreed to donate 15% of their net proceeds to the charity.

Of special interest this year will be the involvement of the Ontario Provincial Police Golden Helmets precision motorcycle team. The team draws its members from detachments from across the province. They volunteer to be members of the team and take special training before becoming a member.

The Golden Helmets will lead the main contingent of motorcyclists from the Toronto area, providing an official escort for the riders. After arriving in Minden, the team has agreed to present their motorcycle routine on Minden's Main Street. The street will be closed to traffic, between the bank corner and CHACE Place corner from approximately 3:30 p.m. The Golden Helmets are expected to perform at 5:30 p.m. Traffic will be re-routed around the closed area via Milne Street.

In addition to seeing the OPP precision motorcycle team, the public is invited to visit the fairgrounds to view the many motorcycles, talk with the riders and visit the trade show. There is no charge for admission.

Grant allocated for high school addition

The Haliburton County Board of Education appointed its special projects committee to oversee the plans for the addition to the high school's library-resource centre. The appointment was made at the board's regular meeting May 26.

The board received word last month of a provincial grant in the amount of $1,025,000 has been allocated for the construction of the addition.

The trustees were told the new structure will be approximately 3000 square, based on the grant formula assigned by the province. Business administrator, Stan Baker, appearing at his last board meeting, provided the trustees with a suggested sequence of procedures leading up to the actual construction of the addition. He suggested that the board should have working drawings of the project by the end of this year.

It was also pointed out that the provincial grant is being made available during 1988.

Smoke-free

A joint elementary and secondary school committee of the board of education which includes teachers, administrators and trustees has recommended that county schools be entirely smoke-free by September 1988. Last year the board introduced a policy which limited smoking in school buildings and the board offices. That policy restricted smoking to a single area within the buildings.

It was suggested staff members who smoke be invited to join the committee drafting the new policy to ensure the other side of the issue is represented.

The committee also recommended the board provide support for workshops that may be held to help smokers to kick the habit.

Trustee numbers

If a discussion paper prepared by the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association is adopted, the number of trustees on the Haliburton County Board of Education could be reduced from 16 to 12.

A copy of the policy recommendations, dated May 22, was circulated to members of the local board at the May 26 meeting.

The association is an organization which represents the interests of education trustees across the province and actively lobbies the Ministry of Education on various matters.

The committee studying the apportionment of trustees in the province, was established by the Minister of Education in November 1986. The group was asked to examine another report prepared by the Ministry which recommended major changes to the distribution of trustee representation within board areas in the province.

The findings of the committee included, "...to change to a method of trustee apportionment that is based on population in order to reflect the current spirit and philosophy of our democratic society..." The distribution of trustees would be based on population, rather than property assessment, as is now the case.

While there was no formula offered on how the reduction in the number of trustees in the county might be accomplished, the combination of two smaller townships under one representative, or the reduction in the number of trustees in municipalities where there are more than one representative would likely be considered, if the recommendations are accepted as policy by the Ministry.

Guild depends on grants

on May 28. Interviewed last week, Hoad praised the effort of the Guild's volunteers for the improved financial status of the group.

"We're in good shape now," she said. "Two years ago when I took over, the president and treasurer were taking out personal loans for operating expenses." She said this will be the first time the Guild will have money to work with at the start of a new year. "We were really skating along on thin ice for the past few years."

She stresses that the situation is not as bright as the financial statements seem to indicate. "We desperately need the grants," she said. "We couldn't manage without them."

Grants from the Ontario Arts Council and the Townships of Dysart et al account for about one third of the Guild's revenues. Funds raised during the Guild's peak season of July, August and September account for the rest of the revenues.

The reason for the improved financial standing this year stems largely from the success of the summer exhibition and sale, which generated a gross income of $63,000. However, while this appears to be a large sum, Hoad noted that the Guild receives only a small percentage of the gross amount.

In addition to the presentation of financial statements, the annual meeting was called to elect a new slate of members to the board of directors. New board members include Rita Barry, Wendy Bateman, Vivian Hill, Alex McLeod, Jane Miller, Stephen Patrick and LaDonna Smith. Board members with another year remaining of their two year term include Ginny Meunzel, Mimi Carson, Jean Farrell, David Risk and Barbara Peel.

With Hoad stepping down as president, a meeting will be called at the end of the month to select a new president.

Two honorary memberships were also received by Guild volunteers Marion Langdon and Marie Wallace. Maxine Curry, "who continues to be an enormous help" was given an honourable mention at the meeting.

Waterway nears peak level

On Monday, May 25 the Haliburton area lakes of the Trent-Severn Waterway were at 80.2% of their normal maximum levels on average. This was a decline of only 1% in 6 days, but left the lakes still about 14% below the 10 year average. Only low flows were run all week as in the previous week, because modest rains kept adding water to the downstream lakes of the canal route. The surplus on them began to be a problem so an increase beyond the minimum outflow was made on the 25th to reduce this. Hotter weather this weekend, May 30, 31, is predicted so the levels should stop rising before any problems develop.

It is unlikely that flows greater than the minimum will be required from the reservoir lakes for at least another week.

Progress

The rapid progress being made toward the establishment of a Minden branch of the Royal Canadian Legion should come as good news to all area residents.

Last Tuesday, at a special meeting called at the curling club, it was announced that there will be no problems for the Legion in receiving its charter. In addition, a very generous gift of land was made to help get the ball rolling.

The work which has been carried out by the various service clubs in the area helps make Minden a nicer place for its residents and visitors. The establishment of a Minden Legion to complement the work of these clubs can only result in greater benefits to the entire community.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Bruce and Ellen Scribner, who donated the prime piece of property, for in the long run, this is a donation to the entire community.

However, while everything seems to be firmly on track for the establishment of the Minden branch, it is evident that a considerable amount of money will need to be raised before the Legion has its own hall to work from.

This is where the community comes into play. Over the next year or so, Legion members will be organizing events to raise money for the building. Let's get behind them in their cause.

For the first short while, the Legion will request our support. However, once established, the tables will be turned, and the Legion will be supporting the betterment of our community.

A new image

The stigma attached to the word 'biker' should be eliminated this weekend as thousands of motorcycles roll into town for the third annual Ride for Sight.

Close to 2,000 bikes are expected for this worthwhile event, which raises money for the Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation of Canada.

RP is a degenerative eye disease that leads to blindness in the victim. This weekend, bikers will be logging many miles in an effort to help the foundation in its goal.

The organizers of this event should be congratulated for their work. So should the participants and the service organizations who will donate 15 per cent of their earnings to the foundation.

Midnight reflections

Newfangled machinery

- by Arthur Black -

It probably doesn't show, but the fact is this column you're reading is being written -- sorry, make that 'processed' -- on a home computer. A Tandy 1000 EX BIOS if you want to get technical about it. Yes amigos, the old Page Six Luddite has finally bowed before the juggernaut of modern technology, set his battered Olivetti manual up on the shelf and gone with the phosphorescent flow.

Any difference? Well it's quieter and there's less messy ribbon to change. My editor likes it better too. He gets all the paragraphs in proper order now, without the familiar strikeouts, henschatches, wavy red arrows and cryptic directions like "INSERT COPY 'A' FROM PAGE FOUR BETWEEN PARAS TWO AND THREE ON PAGE ONE". The machine even covers off my somewhat eclectic grasp on the English language. The program I use proofreads everything I write. Mind you, it's not foolproof. I could write for instance "My computer is simply two clever four words," and it'd be none the wiser. It doesn't differentiate between 'two' and 'too' or 'four' and 'for'.

But it's tough for me to get hot for technology. I am a Certified Clumsy Person, born at least two centuries after my time. I could have handled science in the age of wind-powered ships, horse-driven carriages and kerosene-powered street lamps. In a world of lasers, silicon chips -- hell, even electricity -- I might as well be living on the second moon of Neptune.

But dammit, I'm being seduced by my computer. I've only had it a couple of months and already I know I'd never choose to go back to a typewriter. Just as anyone who's mastered the elementary hunt and peck of typing would be highly unlikely to revert to a goose quill pen, so it is with my home computer. It is simply too fast, too sensible, too comfortable. My old Olivetti would feel impossibly clunky and antiquated now.

So how come I don't feel entirely at home with it? Is it that old sci-fi cliché about Sinister Computers Taking Over the World?

I don't think so. To use a computer -- even a relatively homespun one like mine -- is to recognise the limitations of the genre. The difference between a computer and the human mind is the difference between a filing cabinet and a garden.

The brain drinks in life just as it comes -- great ideas -- itches behind the ear -- the smell of steak broiling on a backyard barbecue three doors down...residual venom from that run-in with the parking lot attendant -- takes all that in and somehow extracts from it our points of view, our attitudes, our beliefs, hates, loves. A computer on the other hand simply stores facts that we can summon up at the push of a button -- providing we know which button to push. A book called The Cult of Information by Theodore Rooszak, puts it much more succinctly: "Computer memory is no more like human memory than the teeth of a saw are like human teeth. (To suggest that) computer memory is superior because it remembers so much more...is precisely to misinterpret what experience is..."

Computers also have a huge Achilles Heel. It's access to information. The only way my computer can get information is for me to feed a disc into it (expensive and not always available) -- or for me to sit here laboriously transferring the knowledge from my source, through my ham hands and into the memory bank.

You want Aunt Edna's letter on file? You have to type it in. You'd like a permanent copy of Milton's Paradise Lost? That Playboy Interview with Woody Allen? Einstein's Theory of Relativity? Start pecking bucko.

This fills me with the same sadness I felt when I realized that every silver-tongued oration Cicero delivered meant that some poor slob of a Nubian slave had to sit scratching feverishly on a wax tablet.

I'm no technological visionary, but I know that some day, home computers will routinely feature a slot into which you can feed sheets, newspapers, books and even voiced thoughts or observations that will all go directly into the machine's memory bank.

In the meantime, it's important to keep the whole concept of new-fangled machinery in perspective. Never forget the story about NASA's search for an ultra-modern, state-of-the-art writing utensil that could be used by astronauts. The requirements were daunting. The new lithographic transcription system had to be capable of producing written characters in a vacuum, upside down if necessary, with a relatively limitless supply of fuel, ribbon or whatever. Expense was no object -- this was for the Space Race.

The word went out. Presumably geniuses around the world bent their considerable grey matter to the task -- until NASA received a crusty, five-word telegram from a correspondent in Germany. The telegram read:

HAVE YOU TRIED A PENCIL?

The dandelion is in no danger of extinction as it has usually gone to seed before it is sprayed, but the chemicals used a potential threat to all living things.

Re: The Call to Support Capital Punishment

Very well put Mr. Domm, I agree wholeheartedly with your views on capital punishment. Today's society certainly is lacking sound moral foundation, and I believe capital punishment may help to rebuild those crumbling blocks and establish a stronger faith in each other.

Those who take the life of another, those who cause pain and suffering to the families of the deceased, those who by this killing turn people's lives inside out, have no respect for it, have no values and therefore don't deserve to live their own life.

I believe most people agree with that, however the question of whether or not our justice system can always make the right decision is the disturbing factor. As violence increases our police departments are overworked and understaffed, our courts are overloaded with cases to try and as for lawyers, it seems the quality of defence is determined by the fee charged.

All of these things weigh heavily on my mind. If we enforce capital punishment and sentence just one innocent person to death then are we not also guilty of murder?

What do you think about...

The changing face of our aging community

by Bill Kulas

One thing for sure in life is that all of us can expect to grow old and one day be able to retire, God Willing that is. I realize that some of you readers out there may have a head start on some of us youngsters. Recently I came across an interesting article in a magazine called "Municipal World" an independent publication published in the interest of good municipal government. It seemed to coincide with last week's article in the Haliburton County Echo pertaining to a proposed new retirement home planned for an area outside the village of Haliburton.

Our population in Canada is quickly aging. Retirement communities are a response to changes that took place in the latter part of the 1970's and are continuing in the 1980's. More specifically, increasing lifespans, a rising standard of living, much greater personal savings and expanded retirement benefits have helped produce a generation of middle class retirees. The arrival of the retirement community in Ontario has widened the housing opportunities for seniors. Currently in our province, housing types include the mobile home, the modular home, townhouses, single-detached homes as well as senior citizen apartments. There are many attractions to the retirement community. A relatively low housing cost, a design and size of housing unit suited to the needs of an older couple or individual, provision of grounds maintenance, an almost maintenance free home, security and a child free environment.

Retirement communities tend to attract the active, mobile and usually younger seniors experiencing fairly good health.

Helen Break, who has a Master of Science degree in rural planning states, "Despite the fact that existing retirement communities have not caused significant problems for municipalities, one should not overlook the potential for future problems as a result of the increasing number of seniors. First of all, a municipality should be concerned with the location of a retirement community, the services provided on-site and the potential demand for local services in the future. Most seniors are fairly healthy and independently mobile when they move into a retirement community. However, with the passage of time, many can be expected to experience health problems. When this occurs, the residents may seek social and health support services locally or may leave the community and return to their original location, usually closer to family."

Fortunately, proposals for new retirement communities are undergoing more detailed analysis at both the municipal and provincial levels. As a result, retirement communities may become even better places for seniors.

What do you think?

Next week's column will look at the increased clout seniors will possess in the future.

Nixon speaks at nomination

Ontario Treasurer Robert Nixon will be the keynote speaker at the Victoria-Haliburton Liberal Association nomination meeting this Thursday at the Lindsay Legion.

The meeting itself is a formality, as John Eakins, Victoria-Haliburton MPP, is uncontested for the nomination. However, Nixon's speech will be an opportunity to hear some of the details of the recent provincial budget.

The meeting will mark the start of Eakins' seventh campaign as he seeks re-election as the local MPP. The meeting is just a few days before the second anniversary of his appointment to provincial Cabinet as Tourism Minister.

The election, expected for this fall, will see Eakins running against Conservative candidate Art Ward. The New Democrats have yet to choose a candidate.

The Liberal nomination meeting is open to everyone. However, only members of the riding association are eligible to vote. The meeting is slated for 8 p.m. at the Legion, 12 York Street, Lindsay.

Seeking young leaders

- by Bill Scott, MP -

The Commonwealth Conference for Young Leaders is searching for Canada's "best and brightest" to participate in a unique international event. They will join one hundred of the Commonwealth's most accomplished men and women for a result-oriented dialogue on the challenge of leadership in a changing Commonwealth. The Conference will be held in Ottawa from September 6-12, 1987.

Delegates will be exposed to the visionary ideas of eminent international figures and statesmen and will participate in an innovative program designed by Canada's leading institutions in foreign affairs (North-South Institute), peace and security (Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security) and leadership development (Niagara Institute).

Participants will learn cross-cultural communication and consensus formation techniques and will critically examine the nature of conflict and the elements of leadership. Through discussion and debate on international issues, delegates will generate new directions and strategies for resolving major problems facing the Commonwealth. Proposals collectively generated at the Conference will be communicated to Commonwealth Heads of Government prior to their 1987 Summit in Vancouver.

Delegates must be Commonwealth citizens between the ages of 25 and 35, hold positions of responsibility in organizations which affect the public affairs of their society, and have a demonstrated capacity for leadership. Delegates will be selected from many sectors of society, including government, business, labour, media, academia, religious bodies and non-governmental organizations.

Delegates are to be nominated by organizations which should be prepared to cover delegate travel and payment of the Conference registration fee. If the nominating organization is unable to provide financial support a bursary fund is available to assist delegates who might otherwise be unable to attend.

The deadline for applications is July 1, 1987. Application forms can be obtained from: The Commonwealth Conference for Young Leaders, 53 Queen Street, Suite 22, Ottawa, Canada K1P 5C5; (613) 238-1884.

Agriculture, seniors, tourism addressed in budget

- by John Eakins, MPP -

Late last month, my colleague, the Honourable Bob Nixon, introduced his third budget as Treasurer of Ontario.

In the last two weeks a great deal has been written and said about this important document and I want to use this space to reflect how I see the budget benefitting Victoria-Haliburton.

In the areas of Agriculture a number of positive steps were introduced including:

A three year, $40 million Land Stewardship program to encourage sound land management and environmental protection.

A new $50 million Farm Management Safety and Repairs program.

It will provide grants up to $2,500 per farmer to encourage farm safety, improve farm management techniques and assist in the purchase of machinery repairs and grain storage facilities.

In the area of assistance to our seniors in Haliburton and Victoria Counties, the Treasurer has increased:

The maximum Property Tax Grant for Seniors to $600.00 up from $500.00.

Added an additional $100 million over the next six years to maintain and upgrade municipal and charitable homes for the aged.

In addition, the government will eliminate OHIP premiums in 1988 for an additional 40,000 low-income individuals and families.

The budget also committed much needed funds to improve our transportation routes including:

A $28 million increase in allocations of municipal roads to a total of $601 million in 1987-88 for a total increase of 9.5 per cent.

The $30 million allocation for roads from the Ontario Municipal Improvement Fund will be continued and an additional $160 million has been set aside to repair and expand provincial roads, bridges and highways.

The increased financial assistance to upgrade our roads will make travelling in Ontario more attractive for our tourists. The budget addressed a number of initiatives that my Ministry has been developing in the areas of Tourism and Recreation.

To quote the budget:

The tourism industry represents a major source of economic potential, particularly for many of Ontario's smaller communities and the northern and eastern regions of the province. The government is committed to the strengthening and revitalization of this important sector.

And one of the most important to me personally is the statement that this budget provides funds to make tourism and recreation programs and facilities more accessible to disabled persons and to provide financial support for the renovation and development of heritage inns.

These and many other programs contained in the budget will benefit both Victoria-Haliburton and Ontarians.

outlawed in the United States for use on golf courses and sod farms. The decision came in response to a number of bird kills associated with the use of the chemical.

Yesterday, while I was cleaning and refilling my birdbath, my neighbour was busy pumping up his spray can to do battle with his usual crop of dandelions.

He called, "Had many birds at your bath? I haven't seen a single one using mine." He seemed unaware of any irony as he tested his sprayer on a particularly succulent dandelion.

"George," I ventured, "what you're doing is hardly guaranteed to attract birds."

He groaned, "You're not going to start on all that business about the evil chemical companies and how spraying isn't the way to handle the problem." He sprayed vigorously along our mutual fence line.

I shrugged, "Well, I'll stop George, so long as you don't ask me again where all the birds have gone. And before you start with the spray you might consider that there is a breeze and my garden is going to get a good deal of the benefit of your 2,4-D."

"Don't be such a fussy. I'm always careful."

From the kitchen window I watched in silent frustration as the spray misted and drifted over my yard.

Each year we use immense quantities of chemicals on our small suburban lots and in the process, poison the soil, kill birds and insects and risk harm to ourselves, our children and our pets. We do it, apparently, so that we will have a GREEN LAWN.

When I telephoned a lawncare company for information on the service they offer, I was told that they spray according to a schedule. In other words get the whole mixture of herbicides, pesticides and chemical fertilizer whether you need it or not.

I asked the company spokesman whether I should take any special precautions after the spraying. At first he dismissed any need for special caution, but finally suggested keeping pets and small children off the grass for at least a day after spraying. The short term symptoms of chemical poisoning include skin and eye irritation, rashes and blisters, extreme nausea and chest pains.

So routine is the use of these toxic substances now that the park grass, on which your dog is rolling ecstatically and over which your toddler is crawling, may have been sprayed that very day. Signs are rarely, if ever, posted or warnings given. Your neighbour is not required to notify you that he intends to have his yard sprayed. Even on a relatively calm day you will get some drift.

Although incidents like that one in the schoolyard are frequent, there are no controls on the use of chemical sprays in urban areas. The personnel employed by the lawn care companies are often inadequately trained and are, apparently not warned of the dangers they face from repeated exposure.

Spray is also used routinely to keep hydro cuts and road verges clear of all vegetation. Since hydro cuts in cottage country often run along a height of land above the lake, the residue will certainly make its way into the water. The use of herbicides on road verges deprives us of the pleasure of wildflowers and makes a summer evening walk along the road a risky business.

People like my neighbour, George, say that if the sprays were dangerous they wouldn't be sold. Unfortunately blind trust in the wisdom of the authorities is seldom a safe attitude. Many chemicals used today, although authorized by the government, were registered long ago before stringent testing was thought important.

Besides, many of the original test results are now known to have been arrived at fraudulently. Until quite recently, environmental effects of chemicals were considered secondary to their potency. The re-testing of chemicals could take years.

We must decide now what sort of world we want: a world full of a variety of life or a silent world of immaculate green lawns. Using chemicals to kill dandelions and a few mosquitoes seems a little like taking a sledgehammer to a gnat.

by Shawn Hagerman

Last week at the Board of Directors meeting, an important motion was past concerning the Chambers sponsored event.

On June 27 and 28, the Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with Executive Advertising and Promotions Incorporated will be sponsoring a Jet-Ski regatta at Rotary Beach on Head Lake Haliburton.

Executive Advertising and Promotions in co-operation with Kawasaki dealers throughout Ontario is promoting an on-going series of tournaments this summer. The series begins in Wasaga Beach on June 13 and 14, Grand Bend on June 20 and 21, Haliburton on June 27 and 28, then they move on to Toronto and six other locations.

Contestants will compete in various categories and accumulate points. The grand prize at the end of the summer, being a new car.

This is the first year for this series of tournaments. There are plans next year of national television coverage for the series. The County of Haliburton by becoming part of the circuit will be in an excellent position this year and in the years to come to host the event and reap national exposure.

We should all thank the hard working members of our Special Events and Fund Raising committee, Brian Watts and Marj Kennedy, without who's efforts this event would not have occurred.

In speaking with Brian the other day, he informed me that the event would be free to the public at Rotary Beach. This should be a good place to bring the family, have a picnic and watch the activities. So... mark the date on your alendar, June 27 and 28. If you have any further questions, please give The Chamber Office a call at 286-1760.

Hungry 'Gypsy' headed our way?

As Haliburton residents watch the leaves disappear from their trees due to the voracious appetites of the Bruce Spanworm, the Ministry of Natural Resources and County Council are preparing for the eventual invasion of yet another pest from the east.

Less than 35 miles from the eastern corner of the county, hordes of gypsy moth caterpillars are devouring just about anything in their paths. And while the migration of these insects is mainly to the east, there are signs that they will eventually make their way to Haliburton.

On Monday June 1, members of County Council's environment committee, accompanied by forestry personnel from the Minden MNR, paid a visit to the Irvine Lake Airstrip. The purpose of the trip was to make council aware of what is being done to protect forests from destruction by these insects.

Unlike the Bruce Spanworm or the Forest Tent Caterpillar, which are cyclical in nature, human controls are deemed necessary to minimize the damage caused by the gypsy moth. Because the moth is not native to Ontario, it is uncertain whether enough natural controls will build up to cause the populations to collapse.

The Irvine Lake Airstrip was set up by the Ministry two years ago to do what nature seems incapable of. During a four-to-six-week period in the spring, when the caterpillars are feeding on the trees, the ministry conducts a comprehensive spray program, which has proven successful in minimizing the damage.

According to Alan Dolan, Information Officer for the base, 615,000 acres (246,000 hectares) of forest were defoliated by the gypsy moth in 1985. In 1986, this was reduced to 420,000 acres (168,000 hectares). However despite the decline, the gypsy moth continues to spread to new areas of eastern Ontario and it is expected to show up in significant numbers in Haliburton in the next three to five years.

Dolan says that constant monitoring of the moth's population and migration is carried out by the ministry along with the Canadian Forestry Service. With this information, they can accurately predict the extent of the spray program that will be necessary almost ten months in advance. For this reason, he says there is no need for alarm. If and when the gypsy moth becomes a problem in Haliburton, the ministry will be prepared to deal with it.

The gypsy moth, like the bruce spanworm or the forest tent caterpillar, is considered to be a serious nuisance. However, with the ministry's spray program in place, Dolan says it poses only a minor threat to the life of the forests. Stands most susceptible to the caterpillar can withstand complete defoliation for at least three consecutive years before the trees die, he says.

By initiating the spray program, using the biological insecticide Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt), Dolan says the ministry has been highly successful in preventing complete defoliation. Therefore, he says only the very weak trees will be killed.

There is no hope of eradicating the gypsy moth, Dolan told his visitors from Haliburton County. Ontario residents will have to accept permanent low levels of infestation, while the ministry concentrates on minimizing the damage.

Because of the tremendous cost of spraying -- $8.6 million this year -- the ministry will be concentrating its program in high-value Crown forest areas where concentrations of the insect pose a significant threat. The areas to be sprayed include investment and management areas, aesthetic areas and ecological areas.

Gypsy moth caterpillars are devouring trees just 35 miles from the eastern corner of Haliburton County.

Brian Cross and Anita Beaver, left, from the Minden MNR, examine one of the planes used in the aerial spraying of gypsy moths at the Irvine Lake airstrip near Denbigh. Representatives of County Council's Environment Committee were given a tour of the operation last week to show what is in place to control infestations of insects. Gypsy moths are expected to start showing up in significant numbers in Haliburton in three to five years.

Investment areas include plantations, young natural stands, areas of regeneration agreement forests and industrial forests. The aim here is to prevent a loss of productivity and provide a continual supply of wood for industrial purposes.

Aesthetic areas include provincial parks, reserves and high-use recreational areas. The ministry hopes to reduce the nuisance caused by the caterpillars, while maintaining the health of the trees.

Ecological areas are those where critical fish and wildlife live, as well as areas with unique plant and animal species. Examples of these areas include stands of hemlock and pine, which are vital as winter yarding areas for deer.

Spraying over private land can also be accommodated from the airstrip. Dolan says this is done on contract with the private pilots and up to 75 per cent of the cost can be retrieved through grants.

The gypsy moth is native to Europe, where natural predators are able to control its growth. However, when introduced in North America in 1860, the insect was welcomed with an abundance of food and few natural predators.

The gypsy moth was first brought to Boston by an entrepreneur, who hoped to develop a hardier breed of silkworm by crossing it with the gypsy moth. The experiment failed and within ten years, Boston was experiencing the worst infestation of caterpillars the U.S. had ever seen.

True to its name, the gypsy moth proceeded to migrate to new areas of the country, and eventually found its way into Canada. Tiny caterpillars migrate by climbing to the tops of trees and flinging themselves into the air to be carried by the wind. In 1985, the windstorm that caused the Barrie tornado helped carry the caterpillars up to 65 kilometres in eastern Ontario.

Wind, however, is not the only mode of transportation for these pests. Female moths are not particular about where they lay their eggs, and they have been known to plant clusters on cars, trailers, tents, canoes and even knapsacks and clothing. The insects then "hitch-hike" to new locations when people return home from their vacations, said Dolan.

Because the ministry is uncertain that natural controls will develop to stem the tide of this invader, it is investigating avenues of helping nature along. Research by the Canadian Forestry Service has identified eight parasites that are considered important in the control of the gypsy moth. A new one, Cerantia smarensis, a fly, is expected to be introduced in Ontario this year. This fly lays its eggs on the surface of leaves, which, in turn, are eaten by the gypsy moth caterpillar. Maggots develop inside the caterpillar, eventually killing it.

The ministry feels that the gypsy moth is in Ontario to stay. The main focus now is to try to control outbreaks to the point that it is not a serious pest.

Welcome!!!

Voices from HHSS

Well, the war has begun. What war you may ask? Throughout the corridors of HHSS a conflict is seeping out from every crack and crevice of the foundations. Yes, the battle of whether to allow students to wear shorts is raging at present. Petitions have circulated around the school on behalf of the SAC and collected 315 names in favour of shorts on one day alone. Many rumblings can be heard throughout the population as the weather heats up and it has become an annual complaint.

On Wednesday, June 3, we had the opportunity to sit in on a meeting of the students' council. The discussion began, each member participating vividly. Diverse ideas were mentioned, such as the buying of length specified shorts (school approved) through the high school itself with the price being partially subsidized.

Another included the members of the SAC circulating throughout the school with measuring tapes to regulate the hemlines of the clothing. Obviously all were ideas and none were specifically outlined as a course of action. However, even to have the subject being brought up in the council meeting means the importance involved toward finding a solution.

Quite a majority of staff oppose the issue staunchly. Apparently this is why it's been a rocky road toward the final decision. Reasons the proposal has been shunned is due to the fact that some believe 'many' students would disregard the length.

Maybe so, but why are the lengths of some skirts the same length (or shorter) than some dress shorts? With proper, respectable shorts the majority of students do not understand the dispute. One thing is for certain, both sides will not ease on their stands. But how many years will it take?

As the days dwindle, the school is in almost a disorganized state. Essays, assignments and tests are being returned to the students in a great deluge. Students are pleading to know who is exempted from what and teachers are going berserk (and it shows) over final marks and report cards.

Last Tuesday night was the athletic sports awards banquet at the Legion Hall in Haliburton. A great dinner was served (roast turkey, stuffing...) and a film presentation was made.

Congratulations to all of the recipients of awards and seals.

Until next week we wish everyone luck with their exam preparations (Four days, six hours....)

Hustlers slugfest starts 3 game streak

After dropping their first game of the season on Tuesday, May 26, the Minden Hustlers have gone on a slugfest that has seen them score 49 runs while giving up only five in the last three games.

On Thursday May 28, at home, the locals pounded out a 17-3 win over the Woodville Merchants as Greg Newell tossed a six hitter for his first win of the year. Colin Newell hit two homers and Barry Shaw one.

Bob Johnston went three for three at the bat as the Hustlers pounded out 18 hits in a winning cause to raise their record to three and one.

On Tuesday night, June 2, the Hustlers travelled to Haliburton to take on the Legion Juniors. They got off to a fast start in the first inning on a walk, a single and Colin Newell slammed his fourth homer in as many games for a 3-0 lead.

In the second they added four more runs on five hits to take a commanding 7-0 lead. The Hustlers added another four runs in the fifth inning with the Juniors picking up runs in the fourth and seventh for a final score of 11-2. Jack Snell was the winning pitcher for his second win of the year.

The game the Hustlers were waiting for was on Thursday June 4 against Lindsay Kent Tavern who had beaten them earlier by the score of 7-6.

The locals were up for this one as they pounded out 19 hits in a 21-0 romp. Home runs by Barry Shaw, Brian Shaw, Jack Snell and Doug Shaw led the way for the Hustlers. Brian Shaw was the winning pitcher tossing a two hitter.

This week Minden travels to Lindsay on Sunday night to take on Pizza Hut who will also be here next Thursday night at 8 p.m.

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers are on a three game winning streak after losing their opening game of the season. In the past three games they have scored 49 runs while allowing only five.

Thieves hit new Stedmans

Police are still searching for a 19 year old Haliburton man in connection with a break-in which occurred at the new Stedman's store in Haliburton Village.

According to the police, the break-in occurred May 31 when two individuals were seen in the retail outlet. They fled the scene. One individual, a young offender, was taken into custody and has since been charged with break and enter as well as breach of probation.

The second individual being sought by the police in the matter is 19 year old Jamie Austin. A warrant has been issued for the man's arrest. Anyone knowing of his whereabouts is asked to contact the OPP at 286-1431.

Constable Brian Sachs is the investigating officer.

Auto theft

A young offender will appear in Provincial Court this month charged with theft of an automobile and possession of stolen property following an incident May 29 in Haliburton.

Police report that a 1987 model vehicle was removed from the Elstone Motors lot in Haliburton. The vehicle was located by the police and the youth arrested.

Constable Brad Burkholder is the investigating officer.

Assault

A Minden man has been charged with sexual assault following an incident last weekend (May 31). Charged in the incident, which involved a six year old, is 55 year old Leslie McKnight.

Dixie Lee drops heartbreaker

Dixie Lee lost a bitterly contested game to Orillia City, 2 - 1.

Orillia scored first from the edge of the 18 yard box with a low shot that took a bad bounce in front of the Dixie Lee goal.

Tom Eager tied the game when Kevin Sicard crossed the ball from the far right corner. Eager placed the ball in the corner behind the goalie.

Still in the first half, Orillia went ahead when the Dixie Lee defence was outnumbered on the right.

Disputes in the game centred around off-side calls and the knocks that the Dixie Lee goalie, Andy Shapiera, suffered from Orillia forwards. Two penalties were called while Shapiera was knocked down about 4 times while playing the ball.

The outcome of the West Rouge Tournament on May 23 was much happier from the home team's viewpoint.

Although they lost the first game 6 - 1 to visitors from New York state, they won the other three games to finish second overall to New York.

Last year's visitors from Koge, Denmark were defeated 1 - 0. West Rouge Blues fielded an over 30 team and an over 40 team which Dixie Lee defeated 1 - 0, and 3 - 2 respectively. Brian Holden, the coach of Dixie Lee, stated that the team passed the ball well throughout the tournament. The first home game was played against Parry Sound at the Haliburton High School, Sunday June 7. The league needs a referee for the Haliburton home games. A local cottager or regular weekend visitor who could referee would save referees from the Muskoka area travelling time when Haliburton is at home. Contact Jim Milne at 457-1848 if interested.

Lesley Tashlin and Barry Scully were named the male and female athletes of the year for HHSS at the annual awards banquet held Tuesday in Haliburton. Barry Scully was active in soccer and badminton this year, while Lesley was involved in badminton and track and field.

Harmony Road charts new course

Robbie and Joanne Reid also known as "Harmony Road" practice their music. The duo have been playing at bars and country and western music festivals in the area for the past three years.

When they started playing together three years ago, Robbie and Joanne Reid - they've been married since - went under the name 'Leather and Lace'. But there were problems.

"The name had sexual connotations for a lot of people," explains Robbie. "People through we had strippers or maybe were an S and M act, so a lot of them just stayed away."

After a year and a half of mediocre bookings and bad experiences with agents they changed their name to "Harmony Road" and started managing themselves. Since then, their luck has changed.

"Everything's getting better and better," says Joanne. "We're playing in more places all the time and people are getting to know us. We're recognized now."

A local duo, the Reids have played their particular brand of Country and Western music in pretty well every bar with a stage in Haliburton County. They've been to Minden's Dominion Hotel, the Gelert Gardens, the Beaconbrook in Haliburton and the list goes on.

Recently they've been as far afield as Kingston and Trenton.

Two weeks ago, they played before an audience of more than 300 at the Country Music festival in Lindsay at the Academy Theatre.

What they like about Country, or Country Rock, as Robbie calls it, is that it's sincere. "A lot of people think Country music is just crying into your beer, but it's not," he says. "The thing about it is that it deals with real feelings and experiences." And Joanne goes on. "It's music that speaks to you. Everyone has lived a country song."

Country music is coming back into style but for a long time, Robbie says, audiences weren't willing to listen to it. They were afraid to hear it because it brought out feelings they'd rather have kept hidden.

"And that's really the difference between Country music and Rock," says Joanne. "With Country, people listen to the lyrics because they're important.

With Rock it's the opposite. Mostly you can't even hear the words and the song is the beat.

"I remember once during a break in one of our shows, a man came up to me and said, 'You brought tears to my eyes during that last song, and I thank you for it,' that doesn't happen with Rock music."

The best audiences, say the Reids, are made up of people over 25 years old. They explain that the problem with the younger they want to do something wild," says Joanne. Robbie nods in agreement. "Our idea is to get people up and dancing, to have a good time."

In fact, Robbie began his career as a musician doing Rock. He's 35 now and he's been playing by himself and in bands for the last 15 years. Originally from Toronto, he met Joanne three years ago when he was playing by himself at the Beaconbrook. It was from her that he got his interest in Country (Joanne's brother and father play in another local band, Just Plain Country), and it wasn't long before the two were working together.

Though they're veterans of the Country music circuit, Robbie and Joanne still suffer from opening night jitters. "The thing is, until you're through the first set, you don't know if they're going to like you," says Joanne. "Some crowds are just undemonstrative and you don't know what they're thinking until part-way through the night when someone gets up and tells you, 'Hey, we like your stuff.'"

"Entertainers," says Robbie, "are basically insecure. They need to believe that their audiences like what they're doing."

But the wind has changed for Robbie and Joanne Reid. People know them and like their music. As Harmony Road, things are getting better for them and in all likelihood they'll not have to worry in future about bad bookings and unappreciative audiences.

Student helps in Anglican parish

by Bill Hodgins

St. Paul's Anglican church in Minden has a new student minister for the summer. Upon meeting her, most individuals will likely have to redefine their image of a "student".

This year's student assistant is 59 years of age. Helga Elliott has spent most of her life teaching high school in Toronto but says "one day God became very real to me."

Helga and her husband George, have four children. Coincidentally, Helga will be studying under Rev. George Elliott at St. Paul's parish.

Studying part time, then taking two leaves of absence from her teaching position, Helga managed to obtain her Master of Divinity degree at Trinity College. She says despite her age she did not feel out of place studying at Trinity.

"Lately there are a lot of older people taking theology," she says. She adds the average age of the first year class taking theology at Trinity is 48.

Helga met Rev. Elliott while vacationing at her Crystal Lake cottage and after some doing, she managed to get assigned to this parish. "This way I can work here while my husband stays close by at the cottage," she says.

While her parents weren't overly religious, Helga says her mother taught her to pray.

While working on a training program with Rev. Elliott, Helga says basically she will be getting experience by officiating at some services and assisting with parish visits. At the end of her three month stay, Helga will go before the bishop and a candidates' committee. These are all steps involved in the process of being ordained, she says.

"I like people," says Helga. She says, if she is ordained, she will be equally happy working in a hospital or a parish. "That will find itself," she says.

Keep Canada Beautiful

Helga Elliott is the new student minister at St. Paul's Anglican Parish under the guidance of Father George Elliott. She will be in the area for three months.

Did you know?

by Doreen Hawman

Did you know that the Canada Pension Plan provides for the payment of a disability pension to eligible Canada Pension contributors and for the payment of benefits to their dependent children? To be eligible, an applicant must be disabled according to the terms of the Canada Pension legislation. Must have made sufficient recent contributions in two of the last three years or five of the last ten years. The maximum disability pension in 1987 is $635.00.

The pension is payable from the fourth month after you are deemed to have become disabled and up to 12 months retroactive payments can be received.

A contributor cannot receive a disability pension and a retirement pension at the same time.

If the contributor is between 60 and 64, either pension could be payable, upon reaching the age of 65 the disability pension will automatically be converted to a retirement pension without application.

It is possible to receive both a survivor as well as a disability pension providing both spouses contributed to the plan. The maximum is $765. A disabled contributor's child can receive a benefit if the child is under age 18 or 18 to 25 and in full-time attendance at school or university. A child may receive up to two benefits if both parents were Canada Pension contributors and are either deceased or disabled.

An application should be made as soon as the disability condition seriously affects the ability to earn.

For further information regarding the Canadian Pension Plan contact the Haliburton County Information Centre, Maple Ave., Haliburton. Open daily 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. or call 457-2733.

Our office in Minden is situated in the Municipal Building Milne Street Minden and is open every Tuesday from 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. or call 286-4100. Consider becoming a volunteer, you will find it a very rewarding experience.

"No Air, No Deal!"

Quote of local citizen Elwood Cranston.

On Monday, Elwood Cranston walked into the showroom of a County Mercury Dealer. His first words were "No Air, No Deal!" He explained, the heat of the summer was nearly upon us and to keep his pet 'Bare Naked Rooster' cool, while travelin', he needed an Air Conditioned car. He'd always owned a Ford, but if he couldn't get a good deal on a car with Air Conditioning there'd be no deal, he'd just stick with his present Ford and an open window. A County Mercury Courteous Salesperson was quick to point out to Elwood that till Saturday June 6th, 1987, only, he could purchase a Brand New Escort GL with AIR CONDITIONING included for only $8,450. He also told Elwood that he could have NO EXTRA CHARGE AIR CONDITIONING on selected Taurus, Topaz and Tempos. As Elwood drove away in his Red Escort GL he was heard to say to his pet Rooster "There's a Good Deal Better, Right Now, At Your County Mercury Dealers!"

There were 9 mornings with frost which is just a bit over average. Continue to keep a wary eye to thunderstorms approaching from the South West, West and North West, especially during June and July.

Dorset Reeve Murray Fearrey cuts the ribbon to officially open the Stedmans store in Haliburton last Thursday. The store, owned by Vince and Rose Connaughan burned to the ground last summer. The first purchase in the store was a chocolate bar.

Geologist's office opens soon

The Algonquin Resident Geologist's Office of the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines will be officially opened on June 12 at Dorset.

The office is part of the extensive service network being established across the province for the mining industry by the new Mines and Minerals division of the Ministry. There are 16 Resident Geologists Offices throughout Ontario.

"Resident Geologists are our Ministry's front line troops in the field," said David Ramsay, Parliamentary Assistant to Minister of Northern Development and Mines David Peterson. "They encourage economic development in an area by providing a whole array of indispensable services and information to the mineral exploration industry."

Resident geologist, David Villard, says the Dorset Office is ideally situated: "The complex geology of the area has inhibited mineral exploration activity. It is a good place for us to work on and develop a data base, determine the mineral potential of the area and promote that potential for development."

The Dorset Resident Geologist's office also will soon be releasing two reports, one on graphite potential and another on the industrial mineral potential of the Muskoka Parry Sound area. Mineral exploration activity in the Algonquin District has recently focused on graphite and there is optimism that one or two deposits will be developed into producing mines.

Among the dignitaries attending the opening ceremony will be the Honourable John Eakins, Minister of Tourism, and Recreation and MPP for Victoria-Haliburton.

Take care with propane

Cottagers are being warned not to turn on propane refrigerators for the season until the appliances have been professionally serviced.

"If they aren't working properly, these refrigerators can produce lethal doses of carbon monoxide," says Bob Clendening, Director of Fuels Safety for the Ontario Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations (MCCR). "People have died in their sleep after starting up propane refrigerators without having them checked and cleaned."

While sitting idle over winter, the propane burners can become clogged with dust, spider webs or other debris. This can cause improper combustion of the fuel, leading to the production of carbon monoxide, a colorless, odorless and deadly gas.

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include nausea, headaches and dizziness.

In a number of related deaths in past years, victims spent the first night at their cottages with the windows still tightly closed or boarded up, allowing little air exchange. Tragically the cottagers had already turned on refrigerators that had not been serviced for the season.

In the past decade, malfunctioning propane refrigerators have been responsible for an average of three deaths a year. In response to these tragedies, the ministry and propane industry representatives have been operating an ongoing public safety campaign. No deaths occurred in 1986.

"The program was very successful last year," Clendening says. "But we know from experience, people can't be warned enough about this sort of thing. With propane dealers helping spread the word, hopefully we can get through another summer without any deaths."

Refrigerators should be cleaned and serviced by a certified propane fitter, familiar with this type of appliance, say fuels experts. Inspections should be performed at least once a year at the beginning of the season and anytime the refrigerator has been moved.

According to the Ontario branch of the Propane Gas Association of Canada, most propane suppliers employ fully trained personnel, capable of performing the annual service checks.

"Once you know when you plan to open the cottage, call the local propane dealer and arrange to have the inspection done the day your arrive," Clendening advises.

In some isolated areas, it may be impossible to have a professional inspection performed. Anyone facing this problem should obtain a copy of the new instructional brochure, Keeping Your Cool About Propane Refrigerators.

More general information is provided in another ministry publication, Living Safely With Propane Appliances. Both pamphlets are available free from the Consumer Information Centre at 555 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2H6 -- (416) 963-1111 or toll free at 1-800-268-1142. Ontario residents with an 807 area code may call the 416 number collect. The TTY/TDD line for the hearing impaired is (416) 963-0808.

Guild news

by Elene J. Freer

The weather always seems unpredictable as one season changes into another. Summer however, is just a few days away at the Rails' End Gallery.

From June 5 to 27 the Waiting Room Gallery will be filled with images of summer...gentle breezes... hot, lazy days...cool, still waters...and an abundance of colours. Fibre artists such as Barbara Peel, Lucy Slykerman, Dini Page, Mary Vanlieshout and Margot Miller have magically transformed these fleeting moments of summer into knitted, painted silk and woven summer tops.

Land Skins will be shown in the Main Gallery. It is an impressive exhibition by Susan Warner Keene and Lise Melhorn-Boe who, using various techniques of paper and felt making, share an interest in exploring our relationship with the land.

Lise Melhorn-Boe was raised in a mining community in northwestern Quebec and has always been attracted to the outcroppings of bare rocks. She especially finds the rock cuts along the sides of highways exciting for what was hidden is revealed and the earth's interior becomes part of its skin. To cast these massive rock formations, Lise takes buckets of pulp to selected sites and applies it to the rock's surface. Once dry, the paper is lifted away and painted.

Susan Warner Keene uses felt and paper making techniques to create "a malleable surface that can be shaped, imprinted and marked in a multitude of ways" in order to explore the "relationship between the landscape and the way we reshape it, actually and imaginatively." About her work, Susan remarks "I was particularly aware of the marks humans have made upon the landscape in an attempt to comprehend their place in the cosmos, whether erecting structures to contain and channel their search or recording their insights on rock or bone. It seemed to me that the marks we make upon the earth's face in fact delineate our own."

Toppers and Land Skins will open with a public reception on June 5 at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to view these exhibits.

On May 5, the Knitting Group met at the Carsons' and had a chance to admire their beautiful greenhouse and new-born lambs. The Knitters are planning a luncheon on June 9 at the Bonnie View Inn at a cost of $11.65 per person. Members are asked to bring their money to the next meeting June 2.

Lodge honours long service

-submitted-

One June 3, 1987, a dinner was served in the United Church Minden by L.O.L. No. 1061 to honour some of its members of long standing. The meeting was presided over by Brother Harold Deacon, Master No. 1061.

Brother Angus Cameron was presented with a 50 year pin by Brother Theodore Watson. Cameron joined the Kinmount Lodge in 1932. He served as Master of the Lodge and was Deputy County Master in 1981-83 and honorary Master in 1985. He also served as County first lecturer. He took the Royal Scarlet Chapter as well during his faithful years of service.

When the Kinmount Lodge disbanded, Brother Angus joined with Minden Lodge No. 1061 to continue further his Lodge affiliation.

Brother Dick Kirkwood then presented certificates of service to Brother George Hewitt and Brother Charles Kent both with over forty years of service.

Brother Hewitt joined the Lodge in 1942. He worked his way through all the Orange degrees and Scarlet Chapter. He served as Deputy Master and Master from 1960 to 64 and again from 1969 to 83. He was also Deputy County Master and Master of the County Lodge from 1972 to 1976. He is still active in Degree work and is at present County Treasurer.

Brother Kent joined the Lodge in 1945. He worked his way through all the Orange Degrees and also the Royal Scarlet. He is a faithful member of Lodge

Kicking the smoking habit

by Stephen Dawson, M.D.

For most people, kicking the smoking habit is one of the most difficult challenges of their lives. There are many programs and products which exist to assist you in quitting the habit. Some people may be helped by these, others may find them useless. However, having considered the impact that smoking has on your body, and the reduction in the quality of life, as outlined in the last two columns in this series, and having undertaken a serious commitment in your own mind to quit, I encourage you not to abandon your effort if any of the suggestions listed below, or any others for that matter, aren't helpful for you. Keep working at it and someday you will find yourself in the enviable position of wondering why you smoked at all.

In your battle to quit, it is well worth remembering that the mortality rate for individuals who stop smoking will start to decline from the day they stop. The risk of fatal coronary heart disease, particularly sudden death, is reduced to the level of a non-smoker in a period of one to three years. Shortly after a person has stopped smoking, the individual will experience improved health and a more favourable long-term prognosis. Those suffering from asthma are like to notice a rapid improvement in that condition. Also noted will be decreased incidences of bronchitis and pneumonia.

There are basically two ways to kick the smoking habit. Slowly reducing the number of cigarettes smoked each day may have appeal for some people. However, this method often leads to a state of "chronic withdrawal" in which the individual experiences a long drawn out period of time when they experience the discomfort that accompanies quitting, while not having the satisfaction of having actually quit.

I think that the best way to quit smoking is to simply stop. Some refer to this method as "cold turkey". Before going this route, you should set the stage. Some items you might wish to consider include:

- select a day well in advance for the date you'll smoke your last cigarette.

- when the day arrives, be prepared to avoid certain routine or "bonds" that you associate with a cigarette. For example, you may have developed a cigarette habit linked to such everyday products as coffee or an alcoholic beverage, or with certain activities, like talking on the phone or visiting with a friend. You may have to temporarily alter your routines to avoid these familiar cigarette-associated activities.

- Look for substitutes for cigarettes such as sugarless gum or candy. The United States Food and Drug administration has approved Nicorette, a chewing gum containing nicotine, for use in withdrawal from cigarette smoking. The gum can relieve the irritability, difficulty in concentration and other symptoms resulting from withdrawal. This product should not be used by pregnant women or those breast feeding.

- tell your friends that you intend to quit smoking. Hopefully they will be supportive in your effort. In particular, you should ask your friends who smoke to avoid doing so in your presence.

- sharing the burden of quitting with another smoker can sometimes provide extra incentive to quit. Friendly bets or one involving a substantial financial penalty for the first who starts smoking may be just what you need to harden your resolve.

- every time you experience an urge to have a cigarette, take a deep breath and hold it for three seconds and exhale slowly. Repeat this several times until the urge passes.

- smoking is an expensive habit. When you quit, why not provide a visual display of the money you are saving. Set out a large jar and each day deposit the amount of money you would have spent on smoking. Reward yourself with something special with the accumulated funds.

- remember that 90% of the smokers who have quit and who take up the habit again, do so in the three months after quitting. Be prepared to be on your guard for up to six months or more after first quitting.

- introducing a new interest, one involving increased physical activity will also help speed the readjustment your body must make from one of a smoker to a non-smoker.

As I mentioned at the beginning, quitting smoking is a major challenge. However I firmly believe the increased longevity you will enjoy along with an improved quality of life far outweigh the temporary discomfort experienced while going through withdrawal. I know once you've successfully kicked the habit, you'll wonder why you ever started in the first place.

Good Luck!

Museum plans treasure sale

submitted

Once again it is time for your museum committee to host their annual "Treasure Sale" along with a table laden down with mouth watering home baking manufactured by our local ladies.

There will also be a well stocked bench covered with house plants and various perennials, many of these specimens were originally planted by our pioneers well over a hundred years ago, and are still flourishing year after year.

The sale will be held on Saturday, July 18 at the Municipal Parkette, on Main Street (Welch's store property).

If our 'Friends of the Museum' have been house cleaning and have a surplus of saleable items that they no longer have room for, we would be happy to have them donated to our sale, clothing, books included.

Items may be left at Dick Kirkwood's residence or phone John Hulbig at 286-1319, who would be happy to call around and pick them up with his truck.

We might add the museum is open at present on Saturday afternoon from 1-4 p.m. starting July 1 it will be open on a daily basis.

We feel we have put together an interesting display under the theme of "Reflections" for your pleasure and we sincerely hope you will pay us a visit in the near future to view the many items from Yester-year.

News from Staannworth Court

Well, dear readers, we do not need an introduction now, so we shall work toward a conclusion. Happy gardening!

We are very glad to welcome Carrie and Mark Vasey home after a holiday in the sunny south. Happy belated birthday wishes for April Carrie and Mark.

Jean and Art Marsh visited relatives in Picton lately.

One of our former residents, Marie Gates, visited with Mary and Albert Stata. She called on her friends and hopes to see us all again soon.

Melissa and Florence enjoyed their trip to Hamilton where they toured the beautiful Botanical Gardens, watched a performance in the Hamilton Place theatre, stayed overnight at the Sheraton Hamilton, and shopped at the Burlington Mall on the way home. This trip was all arranged and enjoyed by Home Support Services, Haliburton, for the Seniors of our County.

Edna Smith has returned from an extended visit with her sister in England. In their particular community of Headcorn, Kent, there is a very beautiful church built of the noted Gothic architecture which was completed in 1300. One can see in the masonry of local marble stone, tiny shells compressed therein thousands of years ago. Its roof of carved braces were sawn and hewn by hand tools and lifted in position over 700 years ago. The community council tries to preserve the best and improve the rest for their young people and visiting tourists.

While enjoying a walk around a museum, two ladies were overheard to say:

One lady: "Is this one of those silly abstract paintings?"

Her friend: "No, that's a mirror".

Florence Lindsay spent a very enjoyable time with her brother in California. While there she visited, among other places, the Mission of San Juan, Ca. This mission was built many years ago by the Spaniards who worked among the native Indians. Much of the structures have had to be rebuilt, but one altar still stands as a home for thousands of swallows which migrate there from Argentina every year on the 19th of March. This is considered by everyone as a most unusual and truly a phenomenon.

Our halls and spare rooms have been getting a facelift, a lovely coat of paint. Our lawn is looking much greener, thanks to Hector and the weather. And many of our residents are doing their best to make our Court lovely with flowers.

Ivy Angliss has been making her usual visits to Peterborough Civic hospital to see her husband Bill, but finds no change in his health as yet.

Emily Poole has recently returned from a pleasant visit with her young folks in Napanee and her sister in Don Mills. At this time we would like to congratulate Emily's daughter, Diane Pratt, for obtaining her diploma as Health Care Aide at the banquet held at Wig-a-Mog Inn. This banquet was held in honour of the 22 ladies graduating in this course presented by Sir Sandford Fleming College.

Harry Cowan has returned from Minden hospital where he was confined for a while. Keep well Harry. Hope you are feeling better too, Jean.

We are glad to see Henry and Vera Howe getting around after their lengthy spell of illness. Daughters Shirley and Mary are keeping a close eye on them.

Our regular potluck supper on May 28 proved a very tasty and successful event. It was prepared by Melissa and Janet and their helpers and consisted of ham, salads, vegetables and cherry cheesecake, (made by Jean?) Our birthday folks enjoyed their delicious cake (made by Mary). There were Eleanor, Jean and Art. Sorry Hector missed his cake. We wish these folks many happy days ahead. Games of euchre followed our lovely supper.

Note: There will be a Craft and Bake Sale on June 20 at 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the lot between the Bank of Commerce and Cox's Apparel store. See you there!

Thought for the days ahead --

Nourished with loving care and thoughts."

senior league

by Pearl Lyle

Hello Readers!

Nice hot weather for June.

The services Sunday evening were conducted by Rev. J. Burgess, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson. On Tuesday morning a lady speaker, Barbara Stynastic spoke, she was good.

The movies Monday evening were "The Royal Wedding" and "The Ross Family Mystery". They were very enjoyable.

Mr. Chesel Nesbitt was in Sunday afternoon to see his mother. Mr. Gauthier had some of his family in to see him.

The Minden Horticultural Society was in charge of the tea party Thursday. The food was delicious as usual and we enjoyed the entertainment afterwards.

Jean Taylor had occasion to go to hospital. We sure hope she will be well soon and home again, as we miss her very much.

Percy Brintnell had a pleasant surprise on Friday evening when four of his Brother Masons presented him with his 50 year pin, for fifty years of being a member of the Lodge.

Norma Barron called on Ada Lewis for a chat Tuesday morning. Jean and George Hewitt called here for a short visit.

I am sorry to report Mrs. Burgess Sr., a resident here, is not very well at present. We wish her well.

Birthdays in June are Emma Stutt, Vera Harrison Winnifred Barnum for this week.

"If there is something we have enjoyed whether a recipe, a good book, or an amusing story, we can get a lot of pleasure by sharing it with others."

Till next week.

Twin sisters Mary Stiver and Alice Vague and Dianne Vague who are on a trek across Canada, visited Kathy Stiver in Kenora.

Tuesday night euchre games at Gelert Centre were for most lone hands - Ralph Schroter, also Joyce Hills, Norma Hamilton, Neil Cartwright, Merle Pringle. This was the last of the euchre games until September.

Winners at Club 35 card party on June 1 included Edith Russell who got the door prize, Ralph Schad, most lone hands, Mabel Trodd and Jim McCarthy, high lady and high man and others were Doris McCleery Mitch Michaluk and Eileen Crawford.

The card party also provided the opportunity to bestow happy birthday wishes to Murray Daniels, the hard working club president on the occasion of his upcoming birthday. An 'impromptu cake' with a candle marked the event. Murray certainly deserves everyone's best wishes.

Visiting with Doreen and Alf Powell on Little Horseshoe Lake recently were Ray and Betty Metcalfe and Mrs. Edith Crowther of Pickering.

Correction from last week, the Minden Women's Institute are planning their 80th anniversary for September 12.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of the late Dorothy Walker and Roy Barker whose funerals were since last week.

All good wishes to Mike Klockhoff in paediatrics at Ross Memorial and to Garth Gammon in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough. Also to Irene Stewart, Ron Redgers and Cliff Lacey and anyone else from our village in hospital or ill at home.

Dr. Ken Hadley, a former resident of the county, will be going on tour with Buffy St. Marie and we wish him all the best.

Last Wednesday the Loyal Orange Lodge hosted a supper at the United Church Hall where Angus Cameron of Norland was presented with his 50 year pin and George Hewitt his 45th year and Charlie Kent his 42nd year pin. Their wives received corsages.

Mary Cox, Margaret Horsley and Shirley Horsley were in Peterborough last Wednesday.

Several draws were made at the IGA with these winners - adjustable Kang-Rocka-Roo carrier Roy Sawyer; motor bike-Shirley Lackey of Little Britain; Sesame Street Big Bird - Russell Walker of Carnarvon; Koala Bear - Dot Corless.

Seven ladies of the North Road Sewing Circle enjoyed an outing including lunch together and shopping in Oshawa last Tuesday.

Birthday wishes to Neil Hughes on June 4, Winnifred Barnum June 6, Megan Bradley June 8 and Lola Prentice June 11.

When climbing up the mountains,
Or bathing in the sea,
When hiking, fishing, lazing
Wherever you may be,
May summer skies be o'er you,
May there be lots of fun;
And, please, still keep on smiling,
When holidays are done!

There will be an Open House at the home of Irene and Bill Moore at their home on Prince Street, June 14 from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

Belated anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ackers on June 4 and all good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Walker on June 10.

At the Agnes Jamieson Gallery are painting and drawings of Dick Griffin and Ron Murdoch from June 13 to July 4 with official opening June 13 from 10 - 5 when the artists will be present. Other coming events include the Fun Fair at Archie Stouffer Elementary School on June 13 and a Ladies Coffee Hour June 11 at Minden Gallery at 10 a.m.

Nettie and Luther Wilson, former residents, now living in Stouffville dropped in on Edith and Donna Luke for a short visit and invited them out to dinner at the newly renovated Wagon Wheel.

Not much news this week. We'd be happy to put your news in if you call by Wednesdays at 10 p.m.

Branch 129 news

by Gerald Irish

How very proud the members of Branch 129 can be! As sponsors of the Army Cadet Corps No. 1129, your branch is making available to these young men and women tremendous training which will serve them well all their lives.

Last Saturday many Legion members, proud parents and friends attended the second annual inspection of the cadet corps. The reviewing officer was the Honourable John Eakins, MPP and the Minister of Tourism and Recreation. Other members of the inspecting party were W.O.R. Scott (Eastern Ontario Cadet Detachment) Wayne W. Wood (Commanding Officer 1129 R.C. (Army) Cadet Corps), and Comrade Joan Irish (President Branch 129, Royal Canadian Legion).

Awards were presented to some cadets. The Gerald Irish trophy for most improved dress - Cadet T. Pringle. The Joan Irish trophy for the best female cadet - Cadet Corporal Chantelle Bellefleur. The Halco Audio-Visual trophy for best attendance was present by Comrade Jim Hobson to Cadet A. Smith and Cadet Lance Corporal C. Dair. Comrade Wally Chambers presented the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 129 trophy to Cadet Corporal G. Simmons, the most improved cadet. Branch 129's newest life member, Comrade Hugh Lester presented the Haliburton Lumber trophy to the best male cadet, Cadet Sergeant C. Smith. Cadet Sergeant A. Cooper received the Commanding Officer's trophy for being the outstanding cadet. This award was presented by Captain Wayne W. Wood, C.O.

The Legion Pipe Band assisted throughout the inspection and their help was greatly appreciated.

At the Executive meeting on Thursday May 28, president Joan welcomed the newly-elected members and the Chairmen of the various committees were determined. Full details of all committees will be in the members' June bulletin.

The beautiful Legion queen sized quilt is on display on the stage in the club room of your legion. Violet Maughan, co-ordinator of making the quilt, posed for photos with the quilt and the Hon. John Eakins. Tickets for the quilt draw are only $1 each with the proceeds going into the branch 129 expansion fund.

Good luck to the legion sponsored ball team, "Legion Warriors" Wear your team name with pride.

IN MEMORIAM

VOICEY: In living memory of Joseph Voicey who passed away June 10, 1982. This month comes with deep regret. It brings a day we won't forget. You fell asleep without goodbye. But memories of you will never die. No verse can say or flowers repay. How much we lost on that day. Lovingly remembered by daughter Loreta, son-in-law Dave and grandchildren Janet, Karen and Debbie.

VOICEY: In loving memory of my beloved husband Joe who passed away June 10, 1982. It is sad to walk the road alone. Instead of side by side. But to all there comes the moment. When the ways of life divide. You gave me years of happiness. Then came sorrow and tears. But you left me beautiful memories. I will treasure through the years. Lovingly remembered by wife Alice.

IN MEMORIAM

VOICEY - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away June 10, 1982. So many things have happened. Since you were called away. So many things to share with you. Had you been left to stay. Every day in some small way. Though absent you are always near. Still missed - loved always dear. Lovingly remembered by all the family.
